MILWAUKEE – Thursday, Nov. 2, 2023: Caleffi North America has hired Tina Gullickson into the role of Chief Operating Officer. Mark Olson, who recently announced plans to step aside from leading the company as CEO, will begin transitioning responsibilities to Gullickson over the coming months. Says Olson, “Tina brings a diversity of leadership experience and business success on which to build on. She tackles challenges head-on and inherits a fun, seasoned and motivated Caleffi team to continue driving us forward.”

Gullickson brings 20 years of experience in the plumbing and hydronic industries. Her career began in sales but quickly emerged into developing business strategies and assuming leadership positions within Weil-McLain during her 16 year tenure, cultivating the Weil-McLain, Marley Engineered Products and Williamson-Thermoflo brands. Then Gullickson worked at Broan-NuTone holding several leadership positions, most recently leading their OEM division as general manager for their North American business unit. She holds an MBA in marketing from Concordia University.

“It is an honor and privilege to join the North America team. I am excited about the opportunity we have to build on the strong foundation that Mark instilled and the opportunities that present themselves from a team so passionate, driven and dedicated,” added Gullickson.

CALEFFI – Creating innovative, superior performance hydronic and plumbing products that help customers live comfortably and economically, while softening their impact on the environment.
